Course Description: Students in this course will explore several regions in the world from the perspective of current world issues. These include: learning about how maps convey information while looking at world maps, learning about populations, economics/resources, world religions, the role of government, and factors of stability and instability throughout the world. Specifically, we will be covering these factors in the regions of Europe, the Middle East, Africa, and Asia. We will use a variety of social studies skills, including conducting research, deliberating, forming and evaluating opinions through the processes of reading, writing and communicating. It is essential to ask questions and be involved in class. If you are unable or uncomfortable with the tasks I assign, you must speak with me privately so I can accommodate you – I am here to help you grow as a student and a productive member of our society!

Accommodations and modifications are types of adaptations that are made to the environment, curriculum, instruction, or assessment practices in order for students with disabilities to be successful learners and actively participate with other students in the general education classroom or in school-wide activities. Specific accommodations and modifications are determined by the student's Section 504 team or Individual Education Program team. If a student with a documented disability is eligible to receive accommodations and/or modifications their special education case manager will contact me within the first two weeks of class and provide me with explicit directions and/or resources to implementing the accommodations and/or modifications that are included on the student's Section 504 plan or Individual Education Program. Communication with me is essential to the successful completion of course expectations and the implementation of accommodations and/or modifications.

Attendance, Behavior, and Performance Expectations: Student success is dependent upon respecting and following the rules of conduct outlined in Board Policy #3241 and described in the student handbook. Both are available on the website at www.eastmont206.org.

Make-up Work: Eastmont School District Policy and Procedures #3122 for excused absences and make-up work apply to this course. Specifically, "If an absence is excused, the student will be permitted to make up all missed assignments outside of class under reasonable conditions and time limits..." All the activities and learning opportunities for this course are expected to be completed. Absences, whether excused or unexcused, cause gaps in learning. Students may revise daily work or assessments to increase scores. Daily work will be accepted for full credit until 1 week after a unit ends. After 1 week, deductions in points may apply. Assessments may be revised until the end of the current semester.
